Sunshine Week features New Hampshire Right-to-Know discussion

MANCHESTER -- In recognition of Sunshine Week, a national initiative to promote open government, the Nackey S. Loeb School of Communications and New England First Amendment Coalition will present a discussion concerning the key to open government in New Hampshire -- the state Right to Know Law.

The panel discussion will be held at the Loeb School, 749 East Industrial Park Drive, Manchester, on March 11 from 6:30 to 8: 00 p.m. It is free of charge and open to all.

Panelists include:

- The Honorable N. William Delker, Associate Justice, New Hampshire Superior Court.
- Lisa English, Assistant N.H. Attorney General, Chief of the Civil Division.
- Gilles Bissonette, Legal Director, American Civil Liberties Union, New Hampshire.
- Steven A. Bolton, Corporation Counsel, City of Nashua.
- Mark Hayward, Investigative Reporter, New Hampshire Union Leader.
- David Taylor, Vice President, Right to Know New Hampshire.

The discussion will be moderated by First Amendment attorney Gregory V. Sullivan, a board member of both sponsoring organizations and corporate counsel to the Union Leader Corp.

Sunshine Week is a national celebration of the citizen's right to know what their government is up to. Its goal is to promote a dialogue about the importance of open government and freedom of information. Participants include news media, civic groups, libraries, nonprofits, schools and others interested in the public's right to know.
